

Off the slippery slope to success

Thursday, 20 March 2008

The TimesONLINE.co.uk has an interesting article on ANDY HILL former professional snowboarder.

ANDY HILL talks about the mountains the way that someone else might talk about falling in love. "When I went to the Alps for the first time, it just felt right," says the former professional snowboarder. "I felt at home in the mountains. I even used to dream about them." He learnt to ski as a child, returning every year. By the time he went to study mechanical engineering in Nottingham, his sporting interests had multiplied. "I helped to run the surfing and canoeing clubs and took up white-water rafting."

Read the full article Here