

Power-assisted snowboard bags launching late 2009

Wednesday, 06 May 2009

The British designers of those rather dinky power-assisted luggage and kit bags over at Live Luggage plan to introduce new ranges later in 2009 specially designed to carry snowboards, skis, surfboards and other sporting kit.

Great news indeed for anybody that has ever had to suffer the indignity of dragging a snowboard or surfboard through Heathrow or Gatwick, avoiding the hate-filled stares of the families of holiday-makers waiting patiently in the check-in queue behind you.

"We will be launching a range specifically for snowboarders and skiers at the The Metro Ski and Snowboard Show later this year, following the successful launch of the Hybrid PA bag at the gadget show last month," said Live Luggage's Business Development Manager, Zachary Johnson.

"Customers will be able to buy additional bags for their snowboards to fit to the base unit on the Hybrid PA bag, in addition to new ranges launching in new colours," Johnson added.

Read the full story at techradar.com