

Outdoor Extreme at The Snow Centre

Monday, 25 July 2011

The Snow Centre, in Hemel Hempstead, will play host to a free extreme sports event on Sunday 31st July, featuring a range of activities for snowboarders, skiers, skaters and general thrill seekers.

The all-day extravaganza will take place both inside and out, with the fun kicking off at 10.00am. Skaters will be able to let loose on a mini skate ramp, while snowboarders will be able to rip up the indoor freestyle park and take part in a K2 Ollie Pop competition. Thereâ€™ll be balancing boards and a snowboard simulator for training, an outdoor jib demo and a big screen showing the latest and greatest ski and snowboard films.Â

For the less well-initiated thereâ€™ll be fun activities for the whole family, includingÂ a rodeo bull, a bungee run and a roving masseur to loosen up stiff muscles. A barbeque and buffet will be available and top DJs will provide a laid back soundtrack to the adrenaline fuelled day.

Ian Brown, managing director at The Snow Centre, said: â€œWeâ€™re hugely excited about putting on the extreme event this Sunday and we hope to welcome everyone from seasoned freestyle fanatics to complete beginners, and even those just looking to chill out, relax and have a bit of fun with their family. Itâ€™s completely free to attend so if youâ€™ve never visited us before, then itâ€™s the perfect opportunity to see what all the fuss is about.
